New Web Site - MAC Construction & Excavating Exposed!

Laborers Local 795 Launches New Web Site as Part of Large Scale Organizing Campaign

Indianapolis, August 27, 2009: Laborers Local 795 has launched a new web site taking aim at exposing MAC Construction & Excavating. The web site may be found at:

www.macexposed.org. MAC is operated by husband and wife team, Victor and Jeannie Unruh.

One of the more interesting items on the web site is a letter signed by the Unruhs in which they warn their own employees against a possible union organizing campaign. The letter also states that the company will fight any union organizing attempts “by all financial and legal means available” to them. These type of statements in the letter are particularly interesting given the fact that the right to organize a union in the workplace is a legal decision left to workers, not management or company owners.

The web site also highlights information from the U.S. Department of Labor that details MAC’s OSHA violations and penalties over the years. According to the information, it appears that MAC has been issued a number of penalties by OSHA within the last ten years.

MAC has been in business over 25 years and has offices in New Albany, Indiana and Louisville, Kentucky. MAC regularly bids for government contracts and their scope of work includes concrete construction, building foundation, flat work, utilities, highway and bridge construction. Laborers Local Union 795 represents skilled construction workers.
