Legal Issues Mount for Midwest Constructors, LLC

Federal Investigation Against Midwest Constructors Expands to Include New Allegations at Drury Inn Job Site

Indianapolis, April 1, 2015: The investigation into allegations of violations of federal labor law by Midwest Constructors, LLC has now expanded to include additional charges which allegedly occurred at a local Drury Inn job site at 96th Street and I-465.

The new charges allege members of Midwest management engaged in illegal surveillance activities which negatively impacted the federally protected rights of its employees.

The new allegations and charges are among multiple charges currently being investigated by federal agents of the National Labor Relations Board. The previous charges were filed in March. Given the new allegations, it is not known how long the investigation may take to be completed.

According to the Midwest Constructors, LLC's web site, it is slated to be one of the major contractors on the new $121 million Market Square Tower project. The Market Square Tower project is a Flaherty & Collins Properties project in downtown Indianapolis. The ground breaking for that project took place on February 18, 2015. The high-profile project will include luxury apartments and a Whole Foods Market.
